Bridgewater Receives $500,000 Challenge Grant

Bridgewater College has been awarded a National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) challenge grant of $500,000 for its humanities programs. The grant to Bridgewater College must be matched three-to-one by money from the private sector, including individuals, corporations and private foundations. When that goal is met, the College will have increased its endowment by $2 million for maintaining and improving its high-quality humanities programs. The period in which the matching funds must be raised extends until July 31, 1988.

Bridgewater was one of only 13 colleges and universities nationwide to be awarded a challenge grant, and its award was the fourth largest dollar amount in that category. A total of 46 grants—out of 222 applicants—were awarded to colleges and universities, university presses, museums, public libraries, research libraries, historical societies, professional associations and public television stations.

Matching funds to meet the NEH challenge grant must come from new and increased donations which are designated for this purpose. Gifts received by the College toward this goal will also benefit Impact/91—A Projection in Excellence, Bridgewater's current effort to raise $18 million by 1991.

Funds generated through the NEH grant and matching contributions will be placed into endowment for the support of several projects at Bridgewater College:

- the Anna B. Mow Chair of Comparative Religion
- the W. Harold Row Chair of International Studies
- visiting scholars and annual symposia programs
- faculty development resources for professors in humanities fields
- library acquisitions in humanities fields.

According to the NEH, challenge grants are awarded only to those institutions whose humanities activities play a vital role in American cultural life. William J. Bennett, the chairman of NEH when the grant was announced, noted the diversity of institutions receiving grants. "We are pleased to make this contribution to both the financial health and the quality humanities programs of these institutions," Bennett said.

In announcing the challenge grant, Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, Bridgewater's president, noted, "We are honored that Bridgewater has been chosen as one of only about a dozen colleges and universities in the nation to be awarded an NEH grant. The endowment will allow us to continue to contribute to the teaching, study and appreciation of the humanities."

In addition to enhancing the regular academic program at Bridgewater College, the grant will allow the College to expand its cultural programs for the general public. By inviting community members to attend regular convocations, lyceums and lectures, Bridgewater College will continue to provide cultural and educational opportunities for the community.

College Nears Halfway Mark of $18 Million Goal

More than 4,000 donors have pledged or contributed nearly $9,000,000 toward the $18 million goal of Impact/91—A Projection in Excellence. Impact/91, the most ambitious fund-raising campaign in the history of Bridgewater College, will continue through June 1991.

A total of $8,988,944.32 has been raised toward Impact/91 in figures compiled through the end of January. Cash gifts accounted for $2,366,500, and gifts of stock, real estate, educational equipment and other gifts-in-kind amounting to $1,439,369 were contributed. Outstanding pledges total $966,522, with an additional $4,216,524 in estate commitments or estates in probate. Of this amount, more than $3 million is in probate from the estate of Mr. V. L. Frederick, who left in excess of $4 million to the College a year ago.

Two thousand seven hundred and four alumni have contributed $1,704,554 to Impact/91, and 456 parents have given $288,025. Four hundred and fifty friends of the College have donated an additional $631,672.

Almost $1 million has been received from 279 businesses and foundations, and 268 churches have contributed $221,623 to the College's campaign.

Money raised to help meet the $500,000 challenge grant from the National Endowment of the Humanities will be used toward reaching the $18 million goal.

In addition to the NEH challenge grant, Bridgewater currently is raising money to match two other challenge grants.

The H. L. Harris Trust and Foundation has provided the College with a $50,000 challenge grant to establish the H. L. Harris Endowed Scholarship Fund. Money from this fund will be used to provide scholarships to talented students who live in the city of Alexandria, Va., or in the counties of Arlington and Fairfax, all in the area of northern Virginia near Washington, D.C. Bridgewater has raised $31,000 of the necessary $50,000 in matching funds, and the College has until June 30, 1985 to generate the remaining contributions.

The Marietta McNeill Morgan and Samuel Tate Morgan, Jr. Foundation has provided the College with a $20,000 challenge grant to help in the funding of Flory Hall. Bridgewater is making substantial progress toward meeting the goal of raising $20,000 in matching funds by June 30, 1985.

Gladys Carter Gives $100,000 to Mow Fund

The close relationship between Gladys Stone Carter and her God has been a central part of Mrs. Carter's life and her relationship with others. It was as a tribute to God and in memory of her late husband that she decided recently to give $100,000 to the Anna B. Mow Endowment at Bridgewater. Mrs. Carter's husband, Leonard Clyde Carter, Sr., was an alumnus of Bridgewater (Daleville Academy) and served as a trustee of the College from 1942-47. A devout Brethren, he was instrumental in starting the first Church of the Brethren in their home town of Bassett, Va.

Although she was not born a Brethren, Mrs. Carter developed a great respect for members of the denomination. She believes that Brethren people most closely do what the Bible says to do. While acknowledging that members of the Church of the Brethren are not perfect, she feels that they try hardest to follow Christ's teachings and that they are the most humble.

Mrs. Carter and her son, L. Clyde Carter, Jr., '56, both tell the story of her transition to the Church of the Brethren. When Clyde, the pastor for many years at the Mt. Bethel Church of the Brethren in Daleville, Va., was a child, he went to a Baptist Church with his mother. The Carter's daughter, Barbara (Mrs. Claude T. Stone), a current Bridgewater trustee, attended the Brethren church with their father. One day when Claude was four or five years old, he told his mother that when he grew up he would build a church large enough for the entire family to go together. That statement made a great emotional impact on Mrs. Carter, and she made the decision that the entire family would worship together in the Church of the Brethren.

The church has always been important to Mrs. Carter. She participated in the Junior League, Sunday School, and sang in the church choir, although she claims she could not sing. She tells that when the Brethren church started in Bassett, there were so few members that she belonged to the choir just to take up space in a chair.

In October of 1984, a new building for the Bassett Church of the Brethren was completed, and Mrs. Carter and her children donated money for the church steeple in memory of her husband.

In addition to the church and her family, Mrs. Carter's main concerns, she has cultivated a number of other interests throughout her 78 years. Her home is filled with oil paintings that she painted as a means of therapy during an illness several years ago. Mrs. Carter is known for her Old English Boxwood garden, similar to the formal gardens found in Richmond and Williamsburg, as well as for her herb garden that contains both cooking and medicinal herbs. She is well-known locally for her lemon and chocolate cakes.

Mrs. Carter's extensive doll collection means a great deal to her, but not as much as the love of the many people (including Anna Mow) who have given the dolls to her.

Mrs. Carter first met Anna Mow in an airport, and Mrs. Mow and her husband, Baxter, later visited the Carter home in Bassett. Mrs. Carter has never heard "Sister Anna" speak because she does not go out very much. She says, "I just know what I've heard and read about her, that's all." Reflecting on the Mow's visit, Mrs. Carter says, "I don't know when I've talked to two smarter people." They are "smart folks and fine folks . . . the kind you want to do something for," she continues.

Mrs. Carter recalls that when Dorothy Murray, chairman of the Anna B. Mow Endowment Committee at Bridgewater, talked with her about becoming an honorary member of that committee, she thought that a donation would be a nice way to honor her husband, Leonard, who was so fond of the College. She also thought that in this way she could thank God who has done so much for her.

Wade Accepts Florida Position

Dr. Ben F. Wade, Bridgewater's Provost since 1982, has accepted an appointment as Vice President and Dean of the College of Florida Southern College beginning July 1.

Dr. Wade served as Dean of the College at Florida Southern from 1973-77 before accepting the presidency at Westmar College in LeMars, Iowa.

A 1957 B.C. graduate, Dr. Wade returned to Bridgewater in 1979 to be executive assistant to President Wayne F. Geisert. In accepting Dr. Wade's decision to leave Bridgewater to return to Florida Southern College, Dr. Geisert expressed his great regret and disappointment that both Bridgewater College and he personally will be losing the services of Dr. Wade.

"Obviously, I wanted Dr. Wade to stay with us at Bridgewater College," Dr. Geisert said in his announcement in early February. "He has worked diligently and continues to work diligently as Provost and in assisting me on a host of other matters. His considerable talents, his excellent judgment and his delightful personality make him an excellent administrator and colleague as well as a delightful friend.

"While we recognize regretfully that we will lose his capable assistance as an administrator and campus colleague, we know that we will retain his friendship. We wish him and his the very best in the new assignment at Florida Southern," the President continued.

In addition to his positions at Florida Southern and Westmar, Dr. Wade has taught at Shenandoah College in Winchester, Va., at United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio, and at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Va. He served as Dean of Brevard College in Brevard, N.C.

Dr. Wade and his wife, Janice, also a 1957 graduate of Bridgewater, have two daughters, Andrea and Laurel. Andrea will be a freshman at Florida Southern College next fall and Laurel will be a junior in high school.

There are a number of varied and interesting happenings during the last two months of this 1984-85 academic year!

Suzanne Benton, a world-renowned sculptor, performing artist and educator, is the scheduled Weimer Lecturer. Ms. Benton will speak Monday, April 8 on "Mask as a Vehicle to the Inner Person," and on "Mask as Entree to All Persons" at Tuesday's convocation. She uses her hand-wrought metal masks in unique, dramatic explorations of humanity's oldest legends from Biblical times to the present.

The Honorable Charles S. Robb, Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia, will deliver the Founders Day convocation address on the morning of Friday, April 12. Dr. John T. Casteen III, Secretary of Education for the Commonwealth, will be the speaker at the Founders Day dinner that evening.

B.C. students are busily preparing for the three Student-Directed One-Act Plays to be produced April 25, 26 and 28. David Minnich, a senior from Elgin, Ill., is directing "The Loveliest Afternoon of the Year," a play by John Guare. Junior Will Bryant of Staunton, Va., will direct a short farce that he wrote, "Not A Wilting Garden." "The Ledge," a comedy by Stephanie S. Tolan, will be directed by senior Rick Tinsley of Richmond, Va.

April 27-28 are the scheduled days for the 1985 Southeastern Youth Roundtable on the Bridgewater College campus. An estimated 350 high school students and advisors, traveling from as far away as Florida, will convene for study, fun and fellowship. This year's theme for Roundtable is "Where's the Belief?"

Roundtable leaders include Karen Chestnut Cox, '85, Brent Holl, '73, Debbie Garber Landes, '87, Lucy Ginder Rittenhouse, '84, Robert L. Sherfy, '34, Leigh Wymer, '85, and Dr. David Metzler, B.C.'s Chaplain and Professor of Philosophy and Religion. Several B.C. students, alum, faculty and staff also are leading the small group sessions throughout the weekend.

Roundtable is planned by members of the Interdistrict Youth Cabinet, which includes Bridgewater College sophomores Glenn Bollinger, Susan Lohr, Charlotte Perry and Kelly Stone; juniors Jerry Anne Thompson and Dewey Williard; and advisor Dr. Dean Neher, Professor of Computer Science and Physics.

The third annual Fifty-Year Club banquet and meeting will be held Friday, May 17 in the Kline Campus Center. Co-presidents Ernest, '33, and Alice Tucker, '31, Spoerlein will preside over this special occasion for alumni and friends who have been associated with the college 50 or more years.

The induction of the "freshman" Class of 1935 will be a feature part of the evening's program. Anna Myers Harman, '35, is serving as convenor for this class.

Dr. Robert L. Sherfy, '34, of Mt. Solon, Va., will be the speaker for the evening. A pastor in the Church of the Brethren for more than 50 years, he served the church in Bridgewater from 1962-1978. Since his retirement, Rev. Sherfy has continued to be a popular speaker with church and civic groups, and he currently is serving his third interim pastorate. In his address this May, he plans to share recollections of life on campus 50 years ago and evaluate personal goals for living.

Leona Zigler Eller, '34, is president-elect of this year's Fifty-Year Club, and A. Olivia Cool, '27, is secretary. Evelyn Blose Row, '32, is the club's archivist.

According to the Spoerleins, memory booklets again are being prepared, and enthusiasm is high for this upcoming evening of fun, fellowship and reminiscing.

The classes of 1905, '10, '15, '20, '25, '30, '35, '40, '45, '50, '55 and '60 will be in reunion on Alumni Day, May 18. Activities for the day will include the annual golf tournament, reunion luncheons, swimming in the College's pool, and the Annual Alumni Banquet. Alumni Day 1985 also is providing the setting for the Flory Hall dedication. Flory Hall is the result of the project in which both Founders and Wardo Halls were renovated and a link was built between the two. While the finishing touches are still being made on the building, B.C.'s students, faculty, staff and administration have been enjoying the expanded and upgraded facility.

May 19 is the day that B.C. seniors are looking to with a mixture of joy and anxiety, smiles and tears. Baccalaureate will be held at 11 a.m. in the Bridgewater Church of the Brethren, and Commencement will be at 3 p.m. in Nininger Hall. The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. Clyde R. Shallenberger, Director of Chaplaincy at Johns Hopkins Hospital for more than two decades. Dr. Shallenberger is a minister of the Church of the Brethren and a past chairman of the General Board of the Church.

Bush Hired As Head Football Coach

Joseph E. Bush, an assistant football coach at Virginia Military Institute for 15 years, has been hired as Head Football Coach. Bush succeeds John S. Spencer, who announced his resignation November 26 following 17 years in that position.

"We are very pleased to be able to announce that Mr. Bush has accepted the position of Head Football Coach," President Geisert said. "We feel that his years of experience working with young men will enhance our program at Bridgewater College."

Bush joined the staff January 1.

"I really like the philosophy of a Division III athletic program," Bush said. "The guys are playing because they really love the game."

Dr. Thomas M. Kinder, Bridgewater Athletic Director, said at the time, "We are getting a man of integrity, a proven football coach and the type of person who will fit in well with the atmosphere we have at Bridgewater College."

With the hiring of Bush and Spencer's commitment to continue on the Eagle's coaching staff, Kinder is optimistic about the future of the B.C. football program. "We are pleased that John (Spencer) has agreed to stay on and assist in recruiting," Kinder said, "and we feel that having an additional staff member will be an asset to our entire program."

Bush is a 1965 graduate of VMI in Lexington, Va., where he received a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering. While a student, he lettered three times in football and baseball, and he was co-captain of the Keydets' football team. Bush was a Distinguished Military Student, and he was a member of both the Honor Court and the Athletic Council. He was also selected to Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities, and he is a member of VMI's Sports Hall of Fame.

While an assistant coach for the Division I Keydets, Bush was involved in several aspects of the program. He served as freshman coach, offensive and defensive coordinator, and his administrative duties included responsibility for VMI's equipment and scholarship budgets, purchasing, officials and complying with NCAA rules.

Prior to his appointment to VMI in 1970, Bush was Head Football Coach at Staunton Military Academy and of I Corps in Korea while serving as a captain in the United States Army.

Bush has served as an elder in the Lexington Presbyterian Church and as a board member of the Rockbridge Area Presbyterian Home. He is a member of the American Football Coaches Association and the VMI Drug and Alcohol Abuse Committee.

The 41-year-old Bush and his wife, Kitty, have two children, Katrina, 14, and Joseph, 11.

Coach Myers Resigns

Mel Myers, Bridgewater College's men's basketball coach for 23 years, will resign at the end of the academic year. Myers submitted his resignation as Head Coach and Assistant Professor of Physical Education February 5 but asked that his decision not be made public until after the season.

Myers, who will turn 55 next month, said that he decided to make the career move while his health was still good. "It was my choice," he said. "It's been enjoyable. I know I'll remember the thrills and I hope I've touched a lot of lives."

"I have nothing but the utmost appreciation for Coach Myers' dedication to his players, loyalty to Bridgewater College and longevity of service," said Bridgewater's Athletic Director Dr. Thomas M. Kinder.

Dr. Ben F. Wade, Provost of Bridgewater College, said, "While the College has no choice but to accept Coach Myers' decision to leave, we do so with much regret. Mr. Myers has always maintained the integrity of Bridgewater's high standards over the years. He will be missed."

The Eagles' 1984-85 record was 7-18 overall and 5-10 in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference, including a 72-68 tournament loss to top-seeded Maryville College.

The previous season Bridgewater had its best finish in the nine-year history of the ODAC. Myers was named ODAC Coach-of-the-Year by his peers and Virginia Small College Coach-of-the-Year after leading the Eagles to an 11-5 conference record and second place finish. B.C.'s overall record was 16-9 last year.

A native of Westminster, Md., Myers graduated from Bridgewater in 1952 and received a master's degree from West Virginia University in 1958.

Myers completed his 23rd season at Bridgewater with a record of 236-327. His overall coaching record is 385-369.

"He is definitely an influence both on and off the court," said senior co-captain Keith Howard. "He taught us that you can't always measure performance by wins and losses—that there's a little more to it than that. I guess you could say that he taught us to keep the game in context and that life goes on after the hoops."

Myers and his wife, Betty, a 1953 B.C. graduate, plan to remain in Bridgewater. "I like it too much to leave," Myers said, "and I have too many friends here." The Myers' three children all attended Bridgewater College. Their daughters, Linda and Diane, graduated in 1975 and 1976, respectively, and their son, Bruce, currently is a junior at B.C.

Don't Let the State Write Your Will!

by William R. Swecker

In the course of my work on behalf of Bridgewater College I am increasingly aware of the tragic fact that many people do not have a will or estate plan of any kind. Of those who do, many believe that once completed the will is good for all time. They have filed it and forgotten it. A few have prepared their own without the help of an attorney. Some of these wills may not be valid.

The disposition of the estate of a person who dies without a valid will is made by a court according to an inflexible set of rules provided by state law. This state-written "estate plan" rarely results in a distribution of a person's estate as that person might have wanted.

With the liberalization of estate tax laws through the increased unified credit against estate and gift taxes, and the unlimited marital deduction, some persons think that they no longer need a will. Or, they may think that these changes in the laws will automatically update an existing will.

It is certainly true that the unlimited marital deduction has prompted many married persons to think that estate planning has been simplified: the total estate will be untaxed because the assets will pass freely to one's spouse under the unlimited marital deduction rules. What they fail to note is that the estate then becomes subject to taxation upon the ultimate death of the surviving spouse. The implications of that situation must be taken into consideration by both spouses when planning the disposition of their estates together.

Most advisors still say that despite the changes in the law (and, in some cases, because of the changes in the law) most persons should have a will which has been written or at least reviewed since the passage of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981.

An essential first step in drafting or reviewing your will is to make a current assessment or inventory of your estate. Your attorney's assistance will be maximized if you can present a clear picture of the size and composition of your estate and your desires for its disposition. Assemble this information before you visit your attorney. Not only will it reduce the time needed by your attorney to prepare or review your will, but it will give you a much better understanding of your total estate.

Nearly everyone needs a will, and if you don't have one, or if yours has not been reviewed in the past few years, it needs your attention now.

Your attorney is the best person to contact for help in making sure your will is valid and current.

As you review your estate plan, consider including in your will a charitable gift to Bridgewater and other charities which are a part of your life and in which you are interested. The charitable deduction provides the opportunity to perpetuate your interest in an organization such as Bridgewater College while at the same time reducing estate taxes. The total amount distributable to family and other beneficiaries will be increased by the amount of the tax saving.

Contact our Planned Giving Office for additional information on how to include Bridgewater in your will and how such gifts are used to further the mission of the College. Simply write to us at the College or call (703) 828-2501, Ext. 603.

Major Benefactor Dies

Mr. H. Edgar Royer of Westminster, Md., a lifelong member of the Church of the Brethren and a major supporter of Bridgewater College, died February 9 after being ill for several years. A former printer and part-owner of a print shop, he is survived by his wife, Dr. Isabel Isanogle Royer.

In 1979 the Royers established a $100,000 scholarship fund at Bridgewater College in honor of Mr. Royer and in memory of his first wife. The H. Edgar and Mary E. Royer Memorial Scholarship Fund was set up to award scholarships to students who are members of the Westminster Church of the Brethren or to Brethren students in the Mid-Atlantic District of the Church. Mr. Royer had been a trustee of Blue Ridge College in New Windsor, Md., which became affiliated with Bridgewater in 1929.

Mr. Royer retired from the printing business in 1962 and accompanied Dr. Royer to South Vietnam. He volunteered as a teacher of English to nursing students at the University of Hue while Dr. Royer served as the Smith-Mund Visiting Professor under the auspices of the State Department at that university.

For over 30 years, beginning in 1932, Mr. Royer served as a Deacon in the Church of the Brethren. He also has been church clerk for both the Meadow Branch and Westminster Churches, was a trustee for property held by the District, and for more than a decade in the 1930s and '40s was a trustee of the Fahrney-Keedy Memorial Home in Boonsboro, Md.

Mr. Royer's first wife, Mary, who died in 1960, was a public school teacher before her marriage. She was involved with the Primary Department of the Westminster Church where she served as superintendent of that department for more than 50 years.

The current Mrs. Royer was the chairman of the biology department at Western Maryland College in Westminster until her retirement in 1979.

Exciting Study Opportunities Offered

Interterm Students Experience Israel, Paris, New York and the Bahamas

Lisa Moorman, Carmela Phillips and Sherrie Wampler pose for photographer Billy Sutton in Paris. Notre Dame stands in the background.

More than 100 of Bridgewater's students took the opportunity of Interterm to study away from campus or to take part in internships during the three weeks from February 11—March 1.

Almost 90 students traveled during at least part of the Interterm, with nearly half participating in three major excursions across the Atlantic Ocean.

More than a dozen students spent 21 days touring Italy, with an emphasis on Rome and Florence. Professor Kline's Art 235 class visited museums, palaces, temples and churches as well as other examples of Etruscan and Roman culture and the Italian Renaissance period.

During alternating years, Prof. Hopkins takes students on a tour of the musical and cultural centers of Western Europe, including London, Amsterdam, Paris, Vienna and Rome. This year's group of 19 students studied various European schools of composition and composers, and they visited homes, monuments, musical institutions and churches. While in each city, they attended concerts, visited museums and toured points of general interest.

Prof. Watson's Classical Cultures philosophy class spent 15 days touring Greece, Israel and Egypt. Thirteen students, including senior Rebekah Henshaw and her father, the Rev. Gilbert Henshaw, studied the historical sites, literature, art and concepts of these extraordinary ancient civilizations.

Other classes stayed a bit closer to home but did travel to more pleasant climates than those the rest of us were experiencing.

Professor Kent's Psychology 415 class studied Marine Animal Behavior for two weeks in the Bahamas. The students spent the first week of Interterm in the classroom in intensive study of behavioral processes of marine animals. When the three weeks were up, this group had studied the behavior of marine vertebrates and invertebrates in both controlled aquarium experiments and in underwater field study on the tropical reefs of the Bahamas.

Another class that had headed in that direction was Dr. Swank's Introduction to Tropical Ecology. This group spent some time on campus learning to snorkel and being briefed on ecological sampling methods. Then it was off to Florida and the Everglades before continuing on to the island of San Salvador in the Bahamas. Once there, the students surveyed the tropical coral reef community found at the Bahamian Field Station on that island.

Two classes spent time in New York City over Interterm. The Home Economics department's Fashion Merchandising class visited fashion retail merchandisers, pattern companies, fashion magazines and other fashion and merchandising related organizations while touring New York. Students taking the political science class The United Nations studied its history, background, structure and charter provisions as well as its roles, functions and decisions.

The basic concepts, language and methods of detection of radiation were studied by students taking the class Radioactivity: Theory, Application and Effects. After a week on campus, the class spent the final two weeks of Interterm at the Oak Ridge Associated Laboratories in Tennessee.

Thirty students were involved in internships or field experiences over Interterm, gaining hands-on experience in the areas of their majors or career goals.

For the remainder of Bridgewater's students, Interterm was a time to concentrate on just one class in an intensive study of a particular subject. Some students used this time to fulfill a general education or major requirement while others took special Interterm classes such as Adaptive Recreation, Collecting Folklore and Folk Music, and The Holocaust.

Incoming Freshmen Receive $16,000 Scholarships

By Kristi L. Ginger, '85

Three incoming Bridgewater College freshmen have been awarded $16,000 President's Merit Scholarships to begin September 1985. The recipients were chosen from a field of 19 high school seniors who participated in a scholarship competition held January 5.

Sue L. Wilkinson, M. Lynnette Snellings and Robert M. Lilly were selected on the basis of their exceptional high school work, exemplary scores on their Scholastic Aptitude Tests, ability to articulate ideas and goals, and their potential to contribute academically and personally to Bridgewater College.

The competitors were asked to bring an example of their best work completed in high school. Their works were graded by a team of faculty members and each student also was interviewed by members of the faculty and administration. "There were 20 faculty and administration members involved with interviews," said Linda Glover, Director of Admissions at B.C. "I think that they had just as much fun as the students did that day."

The students did have fun, but there was also much work involved in winning the scholarship. After the interviews, the students were required to watch a video tape and write an essay following the presentation. The objective was to see how well the student could organize thoughts and express ideas on paper.

Two of the winners chosen in the second annual competition attend the same high school and are friends. Sue Wilkinson and Lynnette Snellings are from Roanoke, Va., and they attend William Fleming High School. The third winner, Robert Lilly, is a senior at Narrows High School in Narrows, Va.

Sue is president of the Beta Club, editor of the school newspaper, and a member of the Student Cooperative Association. She was chosen to attend Girls' State, won a Virginia Junior Academy of Science Award, and is a member of Who's Who Among American High School Students. She plans to enter B.C. as a general science major.

Lynnette is active as a cheerleader and vice-president of the Beta Club. She is a member of the Roanoke Youth Symphony and Job's Daughters, and she plays on the varsity tennis team. The top-ranked student in her class, Lynnette is entering Bridgewater as a mathematics and English secondary education major.

Robert was chosen to attend the Virginia Governor's School for the Gifted in 1984. He is president of the Drama Club and vice-president of both the Latin Club and National Honor Society. He was first chair trumpet in the All-Regional Concert Band and has won numerous first-place awards for his magic act. After graduating, Robert plans to attend B.C. as a political science major.

In addition to the three President's Merit Scholars, Bridgewater College awarded eight $10,000 President's Scholarships and two $4,000 Honors Scholarships.

"The best thing about the program," said Ms. Glover, who coordinated the scholarship competition, "is not only do the winning students have the opportunity to attend the academic school of their choice, but their presence at Bridgewater enhances the college community. Such well-rounded students add much to the college and to the community."

Competitions are to be held annually to select the scholarship winners. A President's Merit Scholar is required to maintain a 3.5 grade-point average to continue receiving the $4,000 scholarship each year. A President's Scholar must maintain at least a 3.2 grade-point average.

Dr. Wayne F. Geisert, President of Bridgewater College, said that "this is an important testimony to Bridgewater College's ability to attract the top-notch student. The people who compete for the Bridgewater College President's Merit Scholarships could go anywhere they want to go, and they have chosen Bridgewater."

CHAPTER NEWS

Baltimore, Md.—At press time letters had gone out from Chapter President Allen F. Schwender, '75, inviting alumni, friends, parents and prospective students to their annual spring dinner meeting on March 19 at Meushaw's Restaurant in Baltimore. President Geisert is scheduled to be the guest speaker.

Carroll-Frederick, Md.—Rogina F. Isaacs, '59, Chapter President, invites all alumni, parents, friends and prospective students living in the area to their annual spring meeting on May 11. A social hour at 6:00 p.m. in the Brethren Service Center at New Windsor, Md., will be followed by a 6:30 dinner and program. Finalized program plans will be announced in the letter of invitation.

Florida—Chapter President Rick Demeri, '74, reported that 61 alumni and friends enjoyed the annual banquet meeting held at the Sebring Church of the Brethren at noon on January 19. President Geisert brought greetings from the campus and was the speaker for the afternoon. Several members of the local church youth group provided special music under the direction of Anita Hollenberg Byng, '76. Officers elected for next year are: Anita H. Byng, President; Raymond R. Peters, '28, President-elect; and Esther C. Wolfe, '55, Secretary/Treasurer.

Tennessee—Donald W. Kilday, '68, Chapter Convenor, reported that plans are being made for a spring dinner meeting. Letters of invitation will be sent when plans are finalized.

Look for reports on upcoming meetings in the June magazine. Please remember to send information from your chapter areas to the Alumni Office so it can be published in the magazine for the interest of all.

Women Post 400th Victory

Bridgewater's women's basketball team recorded its 400th victory with a 60-45 win over Hollins College on January 25. According to NCAA records, Bridgewater is only the third Division III school to accomplish that feat.

The Eagles, under the direction of 24-year head coach Laura Mapp, finished the season with an 8-15 overall record, and they were 7-7 in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference. The Eagles placed fifth in the ODAC after a disappointing 51-46 loss to Lynchburg in the quarterfinal round of the ODAC Championship Tournament.

Despite having struggled the past two years, the young B.C. team will lose no one to graduation this May. For the second consecutive year, sophomore Diana Beard led the Eagles in scoring with a 13.4 per game average that earned her All-ODAC Second Team honors. The team also was encouraged by fine performances from freshmen Tracey Diehl, who averaged 10.0 points and 6.5 rebounds, Marie Hess, with 8.2 points and 6.8 rebounds, and Jolene Cline, who gave strong support off the bench with 6.0 points per game.

Veteran returners included juniors Renee Dingus with 7.2 points and 6.4 rebounds and Shirley Brown, who averaged 6.7 points per game.

The Eagles lost many hard-fought games this season including a heart-breaking 65-60 loss to conference champion Eastern Mennonite late in the season.

Experienced Teams Prepare

The forecast for the Eagles' six spring sports holds several possibilities for success. The Eagles have been preparing since January for the most active time of the athletic calendar. A wealth of collegiate experience characterizes the baseball, women's tennis, golf and track teams. The men's tennis team will depend on a combination of veterans and rookies, and the lacrosse players will need to stay healthy for the team to remain in contention.

Baseball Head Coach Tom Kinder sees this spring as Bridgewater's best chance to regain the conference title. The Eagles last won the ODAC championship in 1978. This season's roster features 13 returning lettermen, including seven seniors and the entire defensive starting lineup, but the Eagles are taking a rather humble approach to a potential banner year.

Last spring the Eagles finished with an overall record of 14-10-1, and a 10-6 conference record that was good for third place. However, a quarterfinal loss in the ODAC championship tournament is still fresh in the minds of the returners.

All-ODAC performers Jeff Poling, Bobby Knecht and Todd Sullivan highlight the list of returning players. Poling has led the Eagles in hitting the past two seasons, including last spring's .397 average. Knecht set a single-season home run record with seven, and Sullivan, playing second base, is part of one of the best double play combinations in the conference.

Additional starters for the Eagles include Bruce Harman at shortstop, Billy Dickerson at third base, Greg Rexrode at first base, and Barry Davis and David Jones in the outfield. Included in the pitching staff are Alan Stadler, Jones and Rexrode, along with ample depth headed by transfer Fred Heatwole and freshman Chad Seals.

Representatives from each class help to make for a promising year on the women's tennis courts. The Eagles finished last season at 6-3 with two of the losses against nationally-ranked teams.

Sophomore Susan Milleeson, who was 7-2 as the Eagles' top singles performer, returns with classmates Cole Lawrence and Diana Beard, both with 6-3 records. The lone junior is Sherisue Barber, also 6-3 in singles, who teamed with Beard for a 7-2 doubles record at the number one flight.

Seniors Susan Boggess and Terry Armstrong and sophomore Beth Rogers complete the list of former players. Also returning after a two-year absence is Head Coach Laura Mapp.

Behind All-ODAC golfer Del Agee, Coach Lamar Neal anticipates a strong season for his squad. Last year Agee, who was a freshman, became Bridgewater's third All-Conference player by leading the Eagles to their highest finish ever in the tournament. Following a disappointing 2-8 regular season showing, the Eagles finished fourth of seven teams in the tournament. The entire team returns from a year ago.

With a healthy Isaac Rodgers and an increase in depth, the Eagles' track and

Eagles Experience Highs and Lows

The Bridgewater College men's basketball team pulled some exciting upsets this winter in what was an extremely unpredictable season of play in the ODAC conference. In back-to-back games in early January, the Eagles upset perennial conference power Roanoke by a score of 75-65 and cross-county rival Eastern Mennonite 69-65 before enthusiastic home crowds.

The Eagles' inconsistency, however, was the team's downfall as Bridgewater went 1-1 against most of their conference opponents to finish 7-18 overall and 5-10 in the ODAC.

Another sore spot for the Eagles came in the form of the regular-season champion Maryville. Bridgewater lost to the Scots 79-78 in overtime at home and 69-68 in Tennessee. The Eagles then had to play the Scots in Maryville in the quarterfinal of the ODAC Tournament, losing 72-68 despite an all-out effort by the members of the team.

The Eagles were paced both offensively and defensively this season by senior Keith Howard, a Second Team All-ODAC selection who averaged 14.5 points per game. Senior Sean O'Connell led the Eagles in rebounding with an 8.9 per game average, and he added 9.9 points per game. O'Connell, a business administration major, earned First Team Academic All-American recognition for his 3.7 grade-point average. He was one of 10 Division II and III players in the nation to receive First Team honors.

Four-year starting point guard David Price finished his collegiate career with over 400 assists for the Eagles. Team members of the Class of 1985 also included Tommy Sutton and Brad Williamson, averaging 5.9 and 5.6 points per game, respectively.

Although the Eagles are losing valuable experience as a result of graduation, several freshmen saw a substantial amount of playing time this year and will give Bridgewater a nucleus for future seasons. Chris Cockrell was second on the team in both scoring and rebounding with 13.3 points and 7.3 rebounds per game. Joe Ott added a 9.0 point average this season, and Kevin Moomaw came off the bench for another 4.6 points per game.

for Busy Spring Schedules

field team hopes to improve on its 6-5 record and fifth-place ODAC standing of a year ago. Rodgers, who holds several B.C. records, has been plagued with injuries throughout his collegiate career. He qualified twice for national competition but was not able to participate either time due to injuries. He has remained healthy so far this year and has qualified for the indoor triple jump national competition. The NCAA instituted Division III indoor nationals this year.

Coach Shane Stevens' team includes Greg Brogdon, Keith Howard, Sonny Lasam, Mark Luiggi, Stacy McDonald, Bill Quigley, Everett Younger and several newcomers.

The men's tennis team progressed to a 4-7 record last year, but several of the top players were lost to graduation. Coach Carlyle Whitelow, however, does return the team's Most Valuable Player of a year ago in junior Marshall Butler, who was 6-5 last season. Senior Joey Dove and sophomore Robert Houser will be joined by transfer Scott Lofton.

Depth will be a big factor for Coach Mary Frances Heishman's 1985 lacrosse team. This year's squad will be led once again by Linda Miller and Wendy Farrell, both Virginia All-Star selections last spring. The Eagles, however, have a small number of players returning from last year's team that finished 2-9, and Bridgewater will need to replace All-ODAC goalkeeper Kim Boyer who graduated.

Four Elderhostel Sessions Planned

By Kristi L. Ginger, '85

Margaret Schwobel of Fairfax, Va., described last summer's Elderhostel program at Bridgewater College as "a wonderful way to meet interesting people."

The people who attend the Elderhostel program share common interests and enthusiasm in the classes, and they enjoy the fellowship and camaraderie of the group.

The program itself is designed as a learning experience for older adults. There is an inclusive fee of $195 for three classes, room and board in an air conditioned dormitory, all activities, and the use of all college facilities including the library, tennis courts, and the indoor swimming pool. The cost for those wishing to commute is $75 and includes three courses and all activities. Commuters wishing to take only one or two classes may do so at a cost of $25 per class.

Persons 60 years of age and over and their spouses are eligible to attend Elderhostels. Dr. John W. Cooper, Bridgewater's academic dean and coordinator of the College's Elderhostel program, has announced that Elderhostel scholarships will be awarded again this year. "The 'hostelships' will pay either half or all of the fee for the week of Elderhostel," Dr. Cooper said. "For a full scholarship, all expenses will be paid except the $30 deposit. Selections of the hostelship recipients will be based on financial need."

The courses offered include a wide range of subjects. There are no exams, no grades and no required homework. "What is required is an interest and enthusiasm for learning as well as a never-ending quest for growth," Cooper said.

During four weeks of Elderhostel programming this summer, Bridgewater will offer the following:

June 9-15

Summer Flora of the Shenandoah Valley

Recent Advances in Astronomy

Contemporary Economic Issues

June 16-22

Computerized Diet Analysis

Physiology of Exercise

Contemporary Mathematics

July 7-13

The Cathedral

The Organ Music of Johann Sebastian Bach

Aquarobic Exercise

July 21-27

American Art of the 20th Century

Learning to Play the Recorder

The People Called Brethren

The non-credit Elderhostel courses are taught by Bridgewater faculty members. These courses do not require any previous knowledge of the subjects.

"Elderhostel is great for alumni," said Cooper, although being an alum is not a prerequisite. "The courses are stimulating and interesting, and participants spend a week living on the Bridgewater campus again."

The Elderhostel program was inspired by the youth hostels and folk schools of Europe, but it is tailored to the need of older citizens for intellectual stimulation. Participants in last summer's Elderhostel at Bridgewater came from as far away as Colorado, Florida, Michigan, and New York.

For more information on the Bridgewater College Elderhostel Program, contact Dr. John W. Cooper by writing to the College or by calling (703) 828-2501.

Elderhostel summer catalogs also are being placed in public libraries throughout the United States and Canada, or they may be obtained by writing Elderhostel, 100 Boylston Street, Boston, MA 02116.

Former Trustee Dies

The Reverend Guy E. Wampler Sr., '28, died January 23 in the Prince William Hospital in Manassas, Va. He had been ill for several weeks.

Rev. Wampler was a trustee of Bridgewater College from 1953-56. He is the father of current trustee Dr. J. Paul Wampler, '54, a physician in Manassas; Dr. Guy E. Wampler Jr., '56, pastor of the Fort Wayne Church of the Brethren in Indiana; and Margaret W. Thomasson, '59, of Elgin, Ill. Margaret's husband, Kermon, '58, is editor of the Messenger magazine.

Rev. Wampler is survived by five grandchildren, among them G. Benjamin Wampler, '82, and Kathryn L. Wampler, '87.

After graduating from Bridgewater, Rev. Wampler received a bachelor of divinity degree from Bethany Theological Seminary. In 1931 he married Ruby Oellig, who died in 1983. Rev. Wampler was a pastor in Salisbury, Pa., Daleville, Va., Boones Mill, Va., Bassett, Va., and Greenmount, Va., before becoming pastor at Garbers Church of the Brethren in Harrisonburg, Va., in 1967. He also served as district and regional executive, standing committee delegate and moderator of district conferences of the Church of the Brethren.

A member of Bridgewater's Fifty-Year Club, he enjoyed gardening and working with people.

Jacob Replogle Dies

The Reverend Jacob F. Replogle, '37, died January 9 at Rockingham Memorial Hospital in Harrisonburg. He is survived by his wife, Thelma, a son, James, who attended Bridgewater, a daughter-in-law, Rebecca Eller Replogle, and two grandchildren.

Rev. Replogle attended Blue Ridge College from 1932-34 before receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Bridgewater. He also graduated from Bethany Theological Seminary with a bachelor of divinity degree in 1942. He pursued graduate studies at Boston University School of Theology and Lutheran Seminary in Gettysburg, Pa.

Rev. Replogle was ordained into the ministry in 1934 and served pastorates in Chicago, Baltimore, Virginia and Pennsylvania. He was the Bridgewater College Director of Alumni Affairs from 1956-68, after which he returned to the pastorate. Upon his retirement in 1976, he returned to Bridgewater as Director of the Reuel B. Pritchett Museum. He served in this part-time capacity until his death.

Mrs. Replogle served the College for a number of years as an assistant librarian in Alexander Mack Memorial Library.

Contributions may be sent to the College in memory of Rev. Replogle.
